

Abstract

Systems and methods for an information management system for an implantable medical device are disclosed. A preferred embodiment uses an implantable medical 5 device that is automatically recognized by a publicly accessible information access portal. Some embodiments of a system disclosed herein also can be configured as a component of an Advanced Patient Management System that helps better monitor, predict and manage chronic diseases.